

Chaise Lounge Uses the Word "Design" as Legs

August 06th, 2008 | Category: Furniture

Oriana is a chaise lounge in wood designed by Genovese David Conti, that is supported by a structure of letters going that spell the word "Design". that product is a really innovative view and I can say that that is the first duration when I see that approach, using letters as legs. After I've saw that design I thought that for a chaise lounge the word "Relaxation", "Relax", "Rest", "Sleep" would be more appropriate. - Via

SEARCH THIS SITE

Go

Realistic 3D design

interiors, bathroom, kitchen design
Visualisation 3D, full evaluation
www.cadprojekt.com.pl

Decorating

Find Interior Design Resources in Our Business to Business Directory
www.business.com

Ads by Google

CATEGORIES

-  DIY
-  Furniture
-  Hardware
-  Home Advice

ARCHIVES

-  October 2008
-  September 2008
-  August 2008
-  July 2008