Chaise Lounge Uses the Word "Design" as Legs

Oriana is a chaise lounge in wood designed by Genovese David Conti, that is supported by a structure of letters going that spell the word "Design". This product is a really innovative idea and I can say that this is the first time when I see this approach, using letters as legs. After I've saw this design I thought that for a chaise lounge the word "Relaxation", "Relax", "Rest", "Sleep" would be more appropriate. - Via
